

12-2-2005

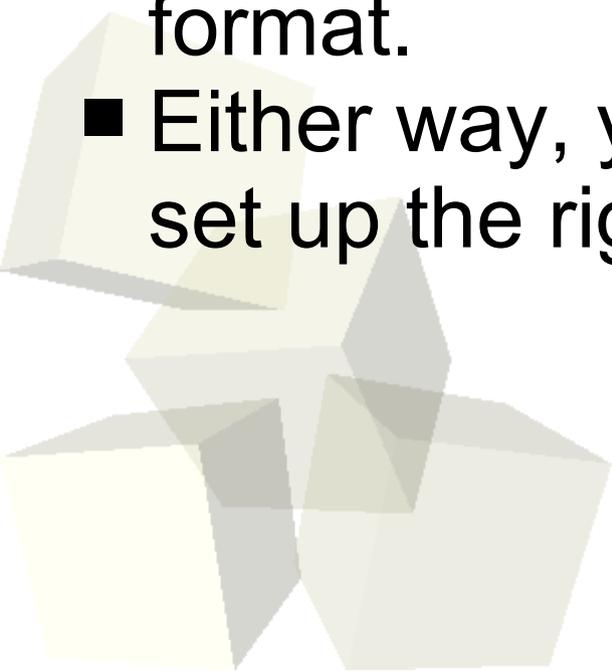

Opening Discussion

- Did anyone look into setting up BLAST locally?

- Once you have the BLAST executable installed, the next step is to get some databases set up for it. Let's walk through the installation instructions. There are a variety of different databases that we could pull down. I went with one of the larger ones.
- You can also use your own data files in FASTA format.
- Either way, you need to use formatdb to get things set up the right way.

- Still nothing due until the finals period.

