Array Algorithms

October 5, 2004

Abstract
Array Algorithms are defined as functional algorithms where each step of the algorithm results in a function being applied to an array, producing an array result. Array algorithms are compared with non-array algorithms. A brief rationale for teaching array algorithms is given together with an example which shows that array algorithms sometimes lead to surprising results.